

Did you ever get “the sex talk”? Tell us the story. What did your family, religious community, or other influencers teach you about sexuality and how did it impact you growing up? Describe an experience that made you question something about sex or sexuality that you’d held as a certainty. What have been the legacies of the sexuality teachings you were raised with on your adult life? What do you wish your partners (sexual, romantic, platonic, etc.) understood about what it’s like to be you? How do you long to feel in your body? Have you ever experienced that feeling?
